This asshole used to bully me in school. He was so vile & nasty. Made fun of my sexuality nonstop, talked about my old shoes & clothes, and did so many other cruel things. Some days I wouldn't even go to school. Glad I didn't commit suicide like I thought about doing during that time in my life. Wish I wasn't out of town on the day of his funeral. I would've loved to walk up to his casket and spit in his face. Good riddens U evil ass nigga.

Christina I am glad you left such a great post...but I am outraged by Kenny Bells. This young man was in school when this happened. We all do a lot of things we regret from that stage in our life. I can't believe you would have the audacity to come on such a forum and spit your own venom and vile language. You should be ashamed of yourself. if anyone is evil it is you and if you don't deal with your own demons you will have a lot to answer to when your own day comes. A man will be punished by his own sins...and you are definitely a sinner. This young man could have been forgiven for whatever he has done in his life, while you're still hanging on to hate. You two may be on different sides of the spectrum when judgement day comes. I hope you release that and forgive him, and yourself.

RIP Delinkko
