

Mr. Eddie Lee Hunt

April 21, 1942 - September 5, 2013

WHO WAS EDDIE L. HUNT

WELL, he was smooth Eddie the local D.J. playing your favorite hits from the 50s, 60s, and the early 70s. He was the old fashioned clean shaver (metal shaver, tickle brush for the soap, water and a hot towel). He was calm and cool and only wore the most expensive, from the hat on his head down to the soles of his shoes. Back in the day, you would find Mr. Hunt shining his shoes, smoking a cigar and listening to his blues. He always taught his kids the importance of keeping some cash on hand and saving the rest. He loved to eat specially frog legs and steaks. He was a collector, mostly of music. My dad was a handsome ladies man who remained a gentleman. He was a son, brother, cousin, nephew, father, grandfather and great-grandfather. Sometimes he may have said some things that were a little harsh at the time, it was all he knew. But in the end he was full of love and compassion. For many years he regularly had coffee and breakfast at McDonalds.

My dad was very sick for a very long time. I believe that God kept him here until he was able to accept and feel genuine love. I saw my dad in a sensitive, caring and loving way. We would have conversations about God.

At this time, I would like to take time to THANK all of the special people who were a part of his life.

So who was EDDIE L. HUNT?

A man who never forgot his past, not even the little church house in the south.

The family of the late Eddie L. Hunt wishes to acknowledge with deep appreciation
