“ Death is nothing at all but what it is supposed to be. In my heart, mind and soul, my brother George has just slipped away into the next room. Nothing has happened, everything remains exactly as the same as it was. I am I, and you are you, and the old life that we lived so fondly together is untouched and unchanged. Brothers we are to each other and that we are still and will always be forever. I know that you would want me to call you by the old familiar names like Andrew as I always did and speak to you in the easy way in which I had always use to. You wouldn't want me to put any difference in my tone of voice nor wear no forced air of solemnity or sorrow. Laugh as we always laughed at the little jokes that we enjoyed together. I know you would just want me to smile, think of you and pray for you and know that you will still be with me. I will always let your name and existence be forever the household name that it always was. Let it be spoken without an effort, without the ghost of a shadow upon it. Life means all that it ever meant and is the same as it always ever was. There is absolute and unbroken continuity. What is death but a negligible accident or our calling from the man above? Just because you are out of sight does not mean you will be ever out of my mind and heart big bro. We your family are doing what you would want, being there for one another, comforting each other and supporting one another. Love Always and Forever your baby brother Kennard!!!

“ To grandmother, aunties, uncles, cousins, great aunties, uncles, and cousins....
I love you all dearly and my father adored you also. With heavy hearts and yet hopeful spirits I send my condolences. My father showed me just how important family was and is. I pray we stay connected to support each other and hold the bond of family together. My father was strong and would want us to be strong too!!! Carry him with you in spirit for I have let his physical presence go and he dwells in my heart and thoughts. So instead of being sorryful just think of the laughter and joy his life brought to each and everyone of us in his own unique way. I love you guys - His only daughter Courtney Rowsey
