“ I am deeply saddened by the passing of Mrs. Ira Black-Hughes. I never considered her family as just my next door neighbors, they were my extended family. I cannot tell you the value of the numerous childhood experiences, that we shared. From Mrs. Black, I learned the strength of a single black mother, for she was the epitome of beauty, brains, and elegance. I learned self pride, dignity, and perseverance, for each of these qualities were exhibited throughout her life. Above all, I learned that nothing is impossible, if you put God first. Rest assured that heaven is more beautiful than ever, with it's newest angel.

I love you and will keep you in my prayers.
