Tracey and Angel words can not describe the heart ache I'm sure you are feeling. I believe that to loose a child in this manner is horrible. Justin is with the Lord, our parents and his grandparents. Tracey has been a good father regarding his children. I am proud of him and the love he feels for his children. I've experienced a Tracey talking about his children. God blessed them both with (2) sets of twins. God is good. I will continue to pray for you both. May God give you strength to make it through. Know that God doesn't make mistakes. RIP nephew and family "we are all we got"
