

Mario DeAlan Somerville

March 6, 1976 - September 9, 2010

No obituary found for this tribute.

Tribute Wall

“ I was shocked and saddened to hear of Mario's passing, he was the kindest and most gentle man you could ever meet. My most heartfelt condolences go out to his many friends and family, the world was a better place when he was with us. God bless him.
##imported-begin##Jay Hutchison##imported-end##

---

September 23, 2010 at 12:00 AM

“ My heart goes out to the family & you are all in my prayers.##imported-begin##Lynnette Boswell##imported-end##

---

September 14, 2010 at 12:00 AM

“ I worked with Mario for a few years at GKN. He has to be the most laid back person I ever met. I truly believe that if a meteor fell from the sky and crashed in front of him, he'd simply walk around it, like that sort of thing happened every day. Then, 10 steps later, he'd turn and ask you, "So, what the heck was THAT?".

I never witnessed it, but I heard of Mario's acrobatic talents from others, something about him doing cartwheels and backflips in the parking lot.

One of Mario's hobbies was playing the game "Final Fantasy" on his PS2, where he went by the nickname "Warblade". We spent many hours online getting into trouble way above our heads. Warblade was always willing to go along to help out another player, usually to the demise of his character. The last you'd see was Warblade standing there, hacking away at some powerful creature in vain, unwilling to give ground until the very last. And when the others asked to try again, despite the obvious futility of it, Mario would always type back, "Sure".

God bless Diane and Theresa, and all those who knew and loved him.##imported-begin##Chris Hoffmann##imported-end##

---

September 14, 2010 at 12:00 AM