Quianna adored all over her siblings. She had an unbreakable special bond with her eldest sister Lucenda Moore and brother in law Michael Rowser who raise her. Quianna attended Messmer High School and upon graduating from high school, she worked various jobs in customer service and retail. She was dedicated to her job and took great pride in performing at her best. She always greeted everyone with a big "bright" smile. Anyone who worked with her knew how devoted she was to making sure those she serviced had a positive experience. Quianna accepted Christ in her life at a very early age. She was a member of Christian Faith Fellowship Church. She had a desire to seek after God. She loved attending church with her children and along with other family members. devoted to her children and was an excellent confidant. She loved spending time with them, rather it be a late movie night at home, or a day at the beach.

Quianna was the person that would befriend the friendless. She often put her own feelings and problems aside in order to console and deal with the problems of her loved ones. She was an adviser and friend. Although she was reserved and quiet at times, she had a Silly and outgoing side to her. Her ear to ear smile was easily contagious.

Quianna love treating herself, and others if it was a trip to the spa or mall. She enjoy doing special things like family dinner, dining out (crab legs was favorite) festivals, writing poetry, journaling, reading to other, watching her favorite television shows, taking trips, or spending quality time with her family.
