“ Sandra will be surely missed by me and all of the members of "The Hands of Time," the music group she sang with from 1961 through 1976 touring the US and Canada.

There are so many things to remember from those times, but especially the delightful, joyful and playful personality that pervaded all of the time she was with us. But I especially remember the times we ended our show with the song "Don't it Make You Want to Shout." Then you'd would have been truly amazed at not only the "voice" but the major dance talent she was. And if any of you were ever able to see her in one of those inimitable performances, she truly made you want to shout with the joy of the song and living, as well as the spirit of a woman so much alive.
