“ I had the pleasure of spending time with Tamara during the cusp of her young adult years in Atlanta. It was a pleasure to see her graduate all those years ago, filled with talent and the promise of years yet to unfold. Someone so special can never be forgotten and her legacy lives on through all the lives she touched. God be praised for the blessing of Tamara, the gift of her love for all of you and the precious memories of your love for her. May you find comfort in each other and God now and in the days to come.

My deepest condolences to everyone in Childs and Hicks families from across the miles. – Angelisa (Angie) Harris
